Ladies of the Stage.

A cry of fire at lifeen minutes before three o'clock this morning awakened the residents of Mount Hope. A small tongue of flame was locking its way through a second-story window of the pretty cottage on the west side of Fleet- proprietor, of this city." Miss Karsner is also a potent factor in pennant-winwood avenue, north of One Hundred and was one of the many "white slaves" in bing. The high wind "The Senator." Hymen is making said an excellent chance ing the League pennant, have among the ladies of the stage just died out, and the tongue of fire burned at present. In addition to Miss Karsner, the matrimonial god will claim Miss Alice room, perhaps from a defective flue, and Lilla Vane, also of that organization.

The family was hastily gotten outside, and stood shivering in the street, while Mr. Depew hastened to the fire-alarm box on at the Wilton, from rheumatism of the large way. Mrs. Gould, the mother of Mrs. Alex-and was watching the proceedings at close quarters.

Fifteen minutes later Fordham's engine and hook and ladder company came around, but the hose was not run out.

Nearly three-quarters of an hour after the alarm had been sent out one stream of water was playing on the fire, and Fordham, Trement and West Farms, territory covering miles, was without its usual protection.

The firemen worked on the north side of the cottage until the flames subsided, and then, chancing to look on the south side, saw that they had driven them over that way. So they took the stream of water to the south side and the flames came out on the north side again.

Then a ladder was run up against the side of the house and axes were used to break some windows and chop a hole in the roof.

The fire was finally put out and at 7.05 the last of the engines went away.

"Jimmy" Morrissey — irrepressible, elastic Jimmy—is going to have another season of opera at the Grand Opera-House, It begins May 26. The company is to be known as the Grand Opera-House Opera Company. The operas to be sung are "Martha," "Faust." "Carmen." "The Bohemian Girl," "Il Trovatore," "Marthana," and Balfe's spectacular opera, "The Enchantress." Each opera is to run for a week, every Monday bringing a change of bill. The operas, says Mr. Jimmy, will be "artistically sendered in our own good English language,"

The fire was finally put out and at 7.05 the last of the engines went away.

Those who saw the fire were deeply impressed with the earnestness of one fire department in their district, but were not so much encouraged by the effectiveness of the work. Had there been any wind the whole of Mount Hope, which is covered with handsome cottages, would have been devastated, to say nothing of the danger that Tremont, Fordham and West Farms ran while their fire departments were away from home.

The cottage, which is owned by C. H. Hemburg, of 555 Third avenue, was damaged to the extent of $1,000, but the loss is covered by insurance. The loss on furniture amounts to $1,200, but this will also fall on the insurance companies. Barry Maxwell, the ex-minstrel, who is to appear in "The Knights of Tyburn" at Niblo's, says that he left the minstrel business, tecause he got tired of "black inp up." Mr. Maxwell, however, declares that he has been asked to "black up" in nearly every part he has since played. In fact, the burnt cork has proved most adhesive. In "The Knights of Tyburn" he will wear his own white unadulterated visage. Miss Jeffreys-Lewis, by the bye, has returned to that cast.
